Synopsis

Class of 1954

Philadelphia College of Osteopathy

A large, intricate white flourish with multiple loops and swirls, framing the word "Dedication" in the center.

Dedication

The Associated Students who have created and produced this SYNOPSIS 1954 feel it would be improper to dedicate it to any individual or single group of individuals. Moreover, were it not for the faith and trust of the Administration, the Board of Trustees and the many Alumni Sponsors and Patrons, this publication could not have become a reality. Therefore, to these people, this first SYNOPSIS in four years, is respectfully dedicated.

A smaller white flourish with loops and swirls, framing the date "1954" in the center.

The Osteopathic Oath

I do hereby affirm my loyalty to the profession I am about to enter.

I will be mindful always of my great responsibility to preserve the health and life of my patients, to retain their confidence and respect, both as a physician and a friend who will guard their secrets with scrupulous honor and fidelity, to perform faithfully my professional duties, to employ only those recognized methods of treatment consistent with good judgment and with my skill and ability, keeping in mind always nature's laws and the body's inherent capacity for recovery.

I will be ever vigilant in aiding the general welfare of the community, sustaining its laws and institutions, not engaging in those practices which will in any way bring shame or discredit upon myself or my profession.

I will give no deadly drugs to any, though it be asked of me.

I will endeavor to work in accord with my colleagues in a spirit of progressive cooperation and never by word or by act cast imputations upon them or their rightful practices.

I will look with respect and esteem upon all those who have taught me my art.

To my college, I will be loyal and strive always for its best and for the interests of the students who will come after me.

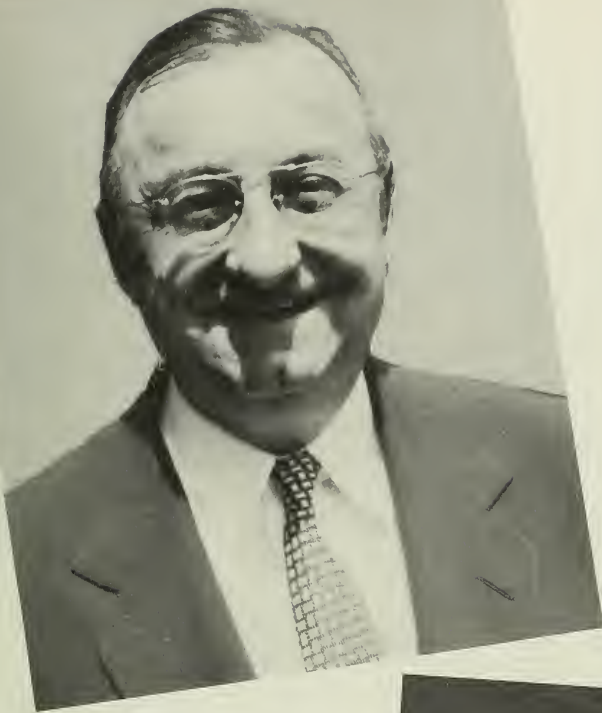

I will be ever alert to adhere to and develop the principles of Osteopathy as taught by Andrew Taylor Still.

Sherwood R. Mercer A.B., M.A.
DEAN

The resumption of the publication of the SYNOPSIS is a source of great satisfaction to all in the P.C.O. family. A yearbook is important as a record. It is more important, however, as a source book of memories. Here as the years go by, one will find reminders of how this faculty member and that student left part of himself in each of us and, without our being conscious of it, helped to make us what we are.

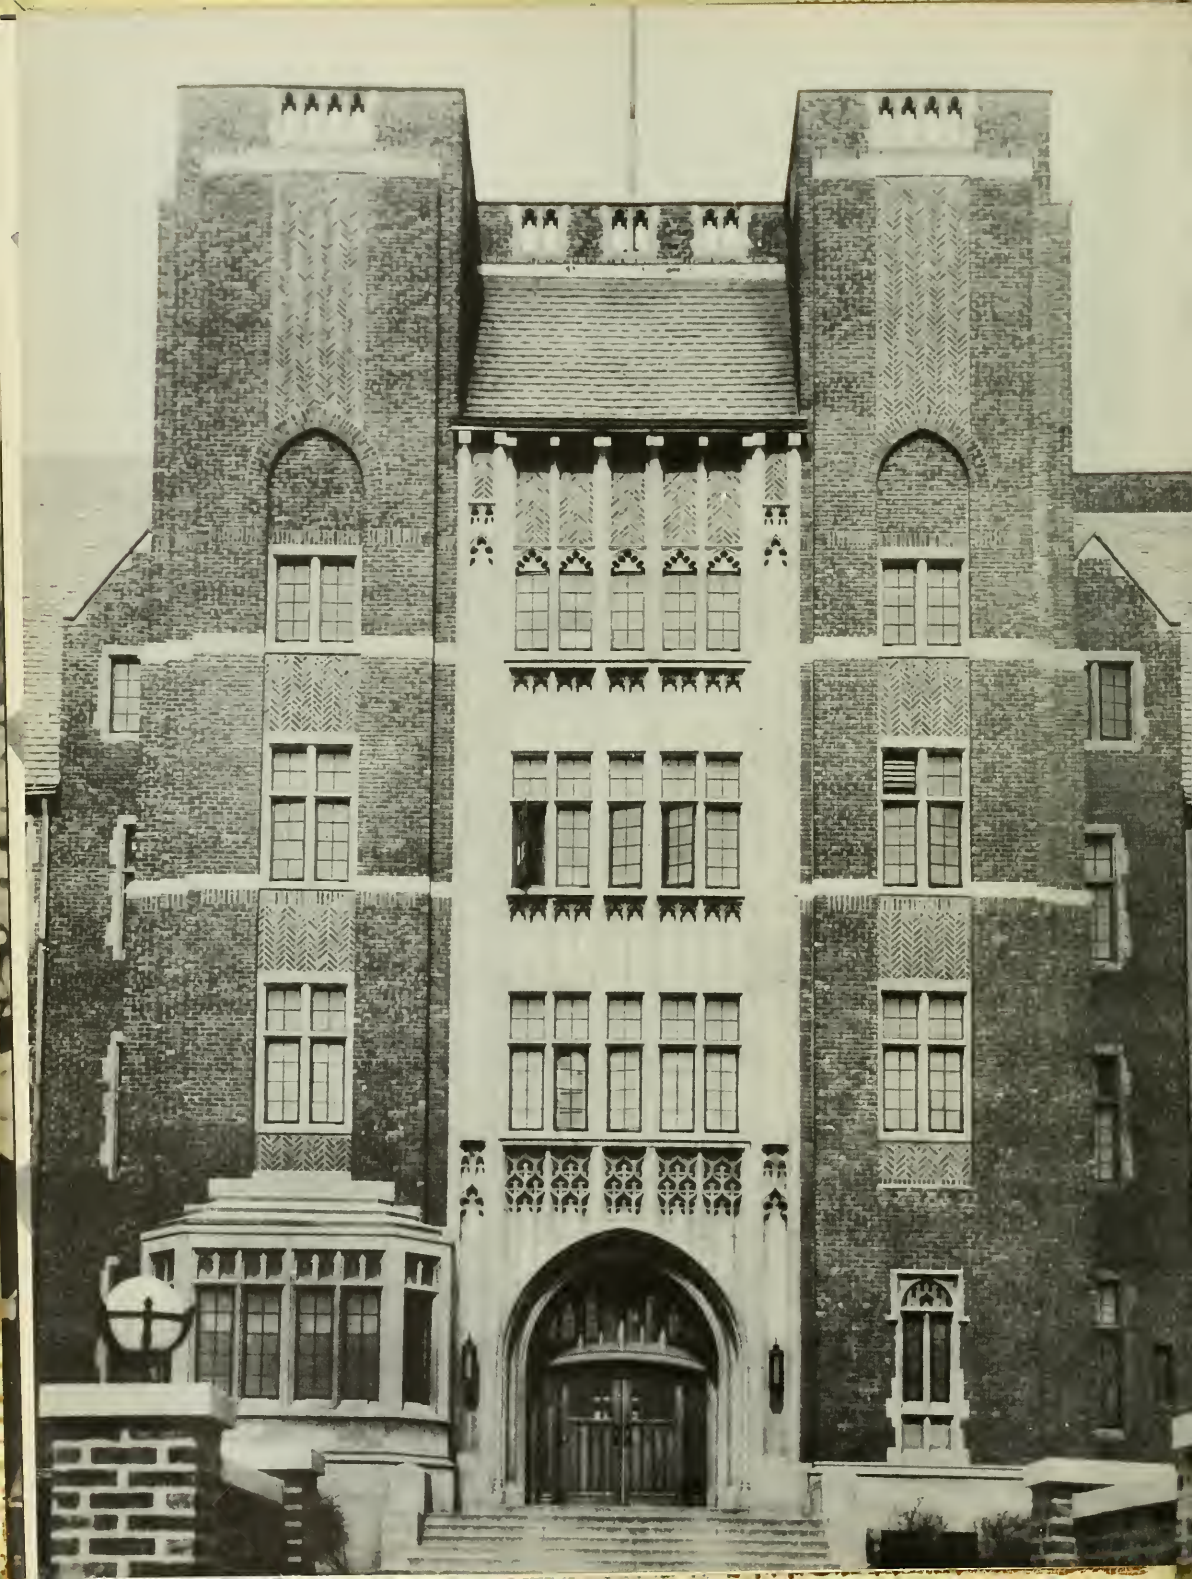

An institution makes its impact through individuals and upon individuals. The Class of 1954, like each of its predecessors, has left its mark on P.C.O. It is part of the College and the College is a part of it. And the College is proud to have it so. I am pleased, both personally and on behalf of the College, to congratulate each man and woman in the class and to wish each a happy, successful and proud career in Osteopathy.

Thomas M. Rowland, Jr.
Registrar

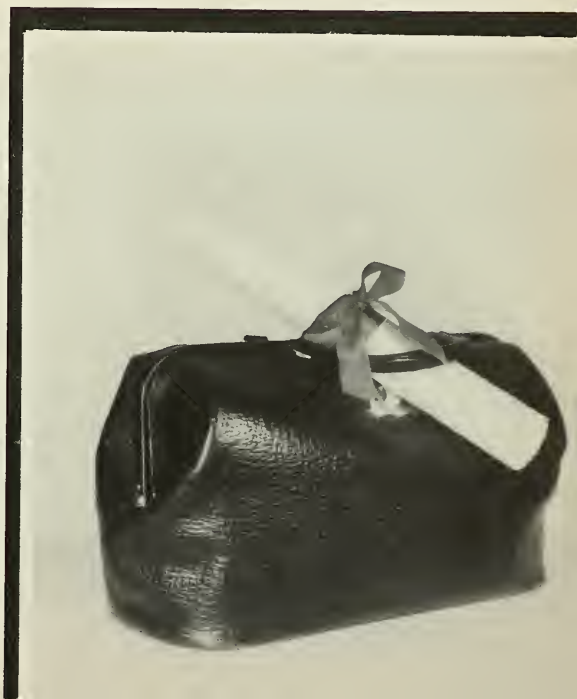

Mr. Rowland has been the college Registrar since May, 1950. He is a graduate of Temple University, where he earned his B.S. degree. Prior to becoming the Registrar here, he worked in the Registrar's Office at Temple University and also was associated with the Insurance Company of North America. As the Registrar of the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, he has frequently given freely of his evening and weekend time to curricular and extra-curricular interests of the college. His forthright honesty and sincere understanding uniquely equip him for his sometimes trying task as college Registrar.

The microscopes and "Bright Line" chambers are quite in vogue here.

Dr. Schall introduces these men to less didactic aspects of chemistry.

"OMT can't be learned from the text book," the students are cautioned.

Dr. Senior explains the apparatus and rationale to the students.

Therap eminence is positioned prior to dorsal mobilization.

Jay Joseph, '56, watches for signs of precipitate formation.

Sophomore class president Les Millard looks up from his path sections.

At times the more noble of the students become demonstrators for their classmates.

Careful pipette work by sophomore student.

Dr. Schall tells the class president about the day's experiment.

Students find the clinical chemistry apparatus intricate.

Careful technique is the predecessor of accuracy.

Low back techniques command particular attention by the students here.

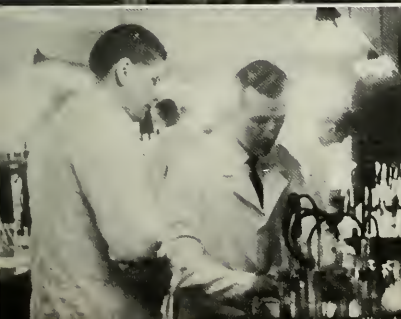

Students in path lab are given briefing of the new specimens.

Demonstration is the keynote in instruction of manipulative techniques.

Text and reference books frequently are consulted in the path lab.

If the tubing on this setup were confused, six experiments would end abruptly.

Open collars and rolled sleeves label the workers in technique lab.

First year students must complete three trimesters of anatomy.

Some days there are seven consecutive hours of lecture.

Good lighting and careful dissection are basic to anatomy lab work.

Kymographic records are made of physiology experiments.

Miss D'Aurio is always ready to explain the bacteriological and serological procedures.

Dr. Allen discusses the region under study with the students.

Some claim that the kymograph was invented by a physiologist with a soap company!

Parasitology lab finds the freshmen up to their elbows in saline solutions.

Careful dissection is done by each student on a rotating basis.

As dissection proceeds, another student follows in Cunningham.

Great diligence is required to properly dissect the elbow anastomosis.

"Look busy and maybe we won't have a quiz today."

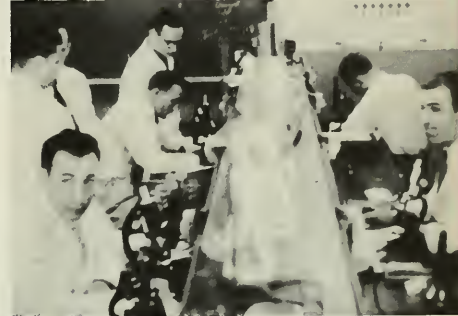

Human excreta is of prime importance in diagnosis.

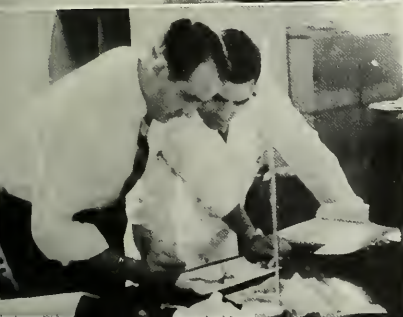

Dr. Lessig inspects the findings of the embryonic parasitologist.

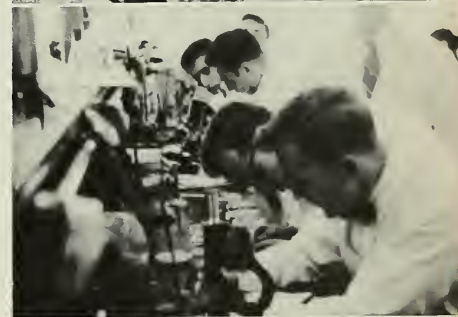

In the end, objectivity overcame sensitivity.

Some students, at first, found it distasteful.

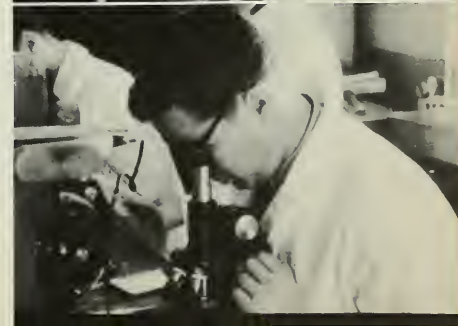

Frogs' legs proved to be more than food on the freshmen menu.

And on they plodded.

And then there were lab books to hand in.

Embryology class requires perseverance to keep pace with the lecturer.

ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT COUNCIL 1953 - 1954

OFFICERS:

President AL. EDINGER
 Vice-President WILLIAM MITCHELL
 Secretary CHARLES PRITCHARD
 Treasurer JOHN BRADFORD

REPRESENTATIVES

Seniors: Louis Amalfitano, Albert Edinger, Phillip Evans, Emil Felski, Abraham Price. Alternate: Thomas Farley.
 Juniors: John Bradford, Arthur Charnov, Charles Fox,
 William Mitchell. Alternate: Edmund Zapp.
 Sophomores: Frank Barone, Jay Joseph, David Patriquin, Charles Pritchard. Alternate: Joseph Andrews.
 Freshmen: Richard Deighan, Howard Foster, Charles Guilliani, James Xanthopolis. Alternate: Daniel Belski.

The entire student body is represented by members elected by each of the four classes. Through these representatives, all students have a voice in matters pertaining to their welfare and organizations.

The Student Council exercises a general supervision over student organizations and activities. It serves to promote cooperation and harmony among the students, Faculty, Administration, and Alumni.

Student Council undertook the task of revising the constitution and workings of the body in order to increase the scope of student government activities and to meet the changes which have resulted through the curriculum change. This revision, only commencing now, will be continued by future Councils and will make student government at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy a more productive and effective organization.

GLEE CLUB

The PCO Glee Club was rejuvenated in 1949 as an all-male organization which put on a highly successful performance of "South Pacific." The following year saw the inclusion of the School of Nursing and the formation of a mixed group with a consequent widening of its musical scope.

For the past three years, under the direction of Frank Kuykendall, the group has steadily developed to the stage whereby it tackles one or two church services as well as singing at the various college functions. The group has also been fortunate in having Carolyn Burton Hill as its regular accompanist.

BASKETBALL

For the first time in twenty years the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy was represented by an official basketball team last season.

The team, coached by (Registrar) Tom Rowland, played fourteen games. Although their first year's record was not particularly impressive in the "won-lost" columns, the season was not unsuccessful.

Previously the team had been playing under the title of "Westside Collegians" . . . but with the resumption of the official status, a notable increase in general student attendance and enthusiasm was very much in evidence.

STUDENT WIVES

Above and beyond their household duties, many wives are members of a school group which is further dedicated to the better understanding of their husbands' profession . . . the Student Wives Organization.

Through the media of cake selling, dances and other affairs, the girls have promoted good will and funds enough to add several hundreds of dollars worth of books to the college library, purchase new curtains for our auditorium stage, and many other items which help to beautify our school.

Whether it is a lecture on some phase of medicine, an evaluation of the problems and responsibilities of the physician's wife, a "bake sale" campaign for additional funds, or an old fashioned square dance in the auditorium, the wives consistently come through with sincere enthusiasm and a will to succeed.

The Axone

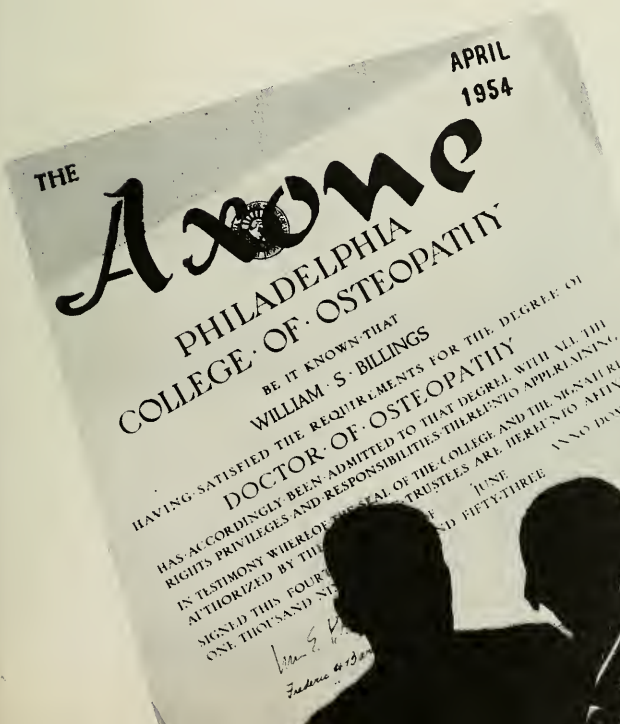

Founded in 1922 by the Neurone Society

THE AXONE

The AXONE has intermittently appeared on the PCO campus since its founding in 1922. When the Class of '54 matriculated in September, 1950, the newly organized Student Council was preparing to restore it to the campus as their official publication.

Hyman W. Weinberg, '53, was selected as the Editor, and continued in that position through the Spring of 1952. At that time, an Editorial Board, consisting of Terry Hall, '54, Brian Herdeg, '54, and Duane Tucker, '54, was appointed. Their term ended in October, '53, when Bob DeRue, '56, and Jim Chimerakis, '56, became temporary Co-Editors. The current Editor-in-Chief is Jim Chimerakis, '56.

The AXONE underwent a metamorphosis in February, 1954, when it became a pocket-size news magazine. This is particularly notable since, in 1922, the first AXONE was also a magazine, just twice the size of the current publication.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

GREETINGS TO THE GRADUATES

My sincere congratulations to each one of you on attaining the coveted goal of graduation. In reality, it is the beginning of your career in nursing.

As graduate nurses, you will have the opportunity and obligation to participate in the provision of health protection for the American people and to promote better health care for the peoples of the world. Accept your challenge and obligation to the nursing profession conscientiously.

My very best wishes to you for future happiness and success.

DESITIN[®] ointment

the pioneer external cod liver oil therapy
 New impressive studies¹ again confirm the clinical value^{2,4} of Desitin Ointment to protect, soothe, facilitate healthy granulation, and speed healing even in stubborn skin conditions often resistant to other therapy.

in wounds • burns • ulcers (decubitus varicose diabetic)

diaper rash • intertrigo

non-specific dermatoses • perianal dermatitis

Protective, soothing, healing, Desitin Ointment is a non-irritating, non-sensitizing blend of high grade Norwegian cod liver oil (with its unsaturated fatty acids and high potency vitamins A and D in proper ratio for maximum efficacy), zinc oxide, talcum, petrolatum, and lanolin. Desitin Ointment does not liquefy at body temperature and is not decomposed or washed away by secretions, exudate, urine or excrements. Dressings easily applied and painlessly removed. Tubes of 1 oz., 2 oz., 4 oz., and 1 lb. jars.
